[ISSUED AS A SPECIAL ARMY ORDER ON THE 16TH FEBRUARY 1888.]

1. His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief has approved of the duties connected with the Supply Reserve Depot, Woolwich Dockyard, being extended, and of its being organised as a separate Commissariat charge. Communications will be addressed to—

The Officer in Charge,
Supply Reserve Depot,
Woolwich Dockyard.

2. From the 22nd instant, the Regimental Head-Quarters of the Commissariat and Transport Corps will be removed from 21, St. James's Square, London, to Woolwich Dockyard. All questions relating to the Commissariat and Transport Corps, heretofore addressed to the Quarter-Master-General, Head-Quarters, will be addressed to—

The Officer Commanding,
Commissariat and Transport Corps,
Woolwich Dockyard.

3. The office of the Paymaster, Commissariat and Transport Corps, will, until further orders, continue to be 21, St. James's Square, London.

4. The Officer in Charge, Reserve Depot, and the Officer Commanding the Commissariat and Transport Corps are authorised to communicate with General Officers commanding and others in the name of the Commander-in-Chief.

5. The establishments detailed for these offices, though not forming a portion of the Woolwich Command, will be attached thereto for discipline and pay.

A.O. 70.—Rules for the Conduct of Field Telegraph Office Work at Advanced Peace Manœuvres.

1. Military telegraph offices will, when possible, be established in the field at manœuvres.

2. All messages handed in should be written on the printed forms provided for the purpose, but the words need not be exactly fitted to the spaces.

Each message should refer to one subject only.

3. All messages must be clearly written and signed. Telegraph operators are, under no circumstances, allowed to take or send verbal messages.

4. As a general rule all telegrams should be addressed to the official title, and not the name, of the person to whom the message is sent; and the official title, and not the name, of the sender should be given.

In all cases the sender must sign his name in the space provided in the right hand top corner of the form, to frank the message.

5. The Director of Telegraphs will arrange for the sending out of messages from military telegraph offices, but the organisation of the Field Telegraph Corps does not provide personnel for this service.

6. On the establishment of a military telegraph office, the Officer or non-commissioned officer in charge will immediately acquaint the local Commandant or Staff Officer of the fact, and will make application for the necessary orderlies, mounted or dismounted, as circumstances may require.

7. The Officer or non-commissioned officer in charge will, as soon as possible after the establishment of an office, endeavour to ascertain the whereabouts of probable recipients of messages (such as General Officers, Commanding Officers, Staff Officers, and heads of departments), and will furnish to the clerk in charge a list of such probable recipients, with addresses, &c.

8. When messages are insufficiently or incorrectly addressed, the clerk in charge will do his utmost to ascertain the whereabouts of the addressee or his representative. Failing delivery, the office of origin will be advised by S.G. (the prefix for a service message connected with the traffic of the line), and the message itself will be exhibited on the office notice board.

Failing receipt of instructions from office of origin the responsibility of the clerk in charge will here end, but the message will be kept exhibited for a reasonable period.

9. In no case will telegraph operators leave their offices to deliver messages.

10. Telegrams may be numbered at the commencement of the message. When this is done, replies should quote the number.

11. The opening of military telegraphs for the transmission of press and private messages will always be by a special enactment, to be published in General or Divisional Orders, accompanied, or not, by such restrictions as may be necessary at the time; and, in the absence of such an enactment, no unofficial messages of any kind whatever will be received or forwarded at any military telegraph office.

The rank will be purely honorary; it will not confer the right of any higher command than that to which the holder may be entitled by virtue of his substantive commission, and will not involve the issue of a new commission. Officers may, however, wear the badges of rank and other distinctions in dress pertaining to the honorary rank; but Captains will not wear the scabbard and spurs of a Field Officer on parade or military duty, except when they are performing the duties of a Field Officer. These regulations will apply to Officers who have, in another branch of the Service, obtained honorary rank higher than the rank they hold in the corps with which they are at present serving.

A.O. 75.—Permanent Staff—Acting Appointments.

No drill will be reckoned as troop drill unless at least 12 men, properly mounted and equipped, are present; neither will more than one such drill be held on any one day, except as provided in para. 178a. Recruits will be required to go through 12 drills, and trumpeters three mounted drills. The above drills must take place between the yearly assemblies for permanent duty. Any troop drills performed in excess of the above number will be allowed to reckon as squad drill, as will also musketry drills, at which instruction may also have been given in sword or carbine exercise.

178a. There will, however, be no objection to a regiment being assembled for the two days immediately preceding the period of permanent duty, and undergoing on such days four of the mounted troop drills required by para. 178. Pay will be issued to the non-commissioned officers and men under para. 249, provided that not less than two-thirds of the enrolled strength of each troop shall attend such drills. The fifth mounted troop drill will not, under such circumstances, be required.

178b. Leave of absence from the squad or mounted troop drills may be granted by the troop captains to men who have attended three annual assemblies of their regiment for permanent duty; but no pay for troop drills will be granted to such men unless they shall have attended at least two such drills.

178c. Leave from drills should not be granted in other cases, unless under very special and exceptional circumstances, full particulars regarding which will be furnished to the Adjutant-General, with the view to covering authority being obtained.

178d. The drills from which leave is granted for the reasons stated in para. 178(b) and 178(c) should be shown against the men's names in the troop pay lists.

A.O. 78.—Honorary Rank—Dress.

The following will be substituted for para. 51 of the Regulations for the Yeomanry Cavalry, 1885:—

301a. Such number of the sergeants of the permanent staff, as may be selected by the Commanding Officer of the corps, and fixed in each case by the Secretary of State, having regard to the number of separate armouries, and the other circumstances of the corps, will be required to go through a course of instruction at the Royal Small-Arms Establishment, Birmingham. On the satisfactory completion of their course, they will receive certificates of competency in the care of arms.

301b. Every arm in possession of the regiment will be examined thoroughly once every six months by a certificated sergeant, who will keep a record of the condition of the arms, and make detailed reports to the Commanding Officer of the corps (who will be held responsible that the duties of the armourer are properly performed); and he will execute such minor repairs as are laid down in the code of instructions he will receive at Birmingham. A certificated sergeant will receive 4d. for each arm in the possession of the corps, and inspected by him, payable annually, the payment to be conditional on a certificate signed by the Commanding Officer that the duty has been satisfactorily performed. 2. The following will be substituted for para. 315:—

315. The boxes containing the ammunition will be inspected at the annual inspection of the arms to see that they are kept in good condition, and every care will be taken to see that the boxes, as well as any empty cartridge cases in them, are as free as possible from grit and dirt when returned to store.

3. The following will be substituted for Appendix No. 3:—

APPENDIX No. 3.

Directions for Cleaning the Martini-Henry Carbine.

a. Open the breech. Draw the cleaning rod. Screw the jag on to the cleaning rod, wrap a damp rag, flannel, or tow, round the jag so as to cover it, pass it into the barrel, and rub the barrel carefully up and down so as to remove the fouling. No water is to be used. Should the rod stick fast in the barrel, no attempt is to be made to drag it out by extreme force, but it must be removed by the armourer. Replace the damp rag by a dry one, and having dried the barrel, finally pass an oiled rag, woollen if possible, a few times up and down the barrel; wipe the inside of the body, as far as practicable, the block, and the cartridge chamber, with an oiled rag, to prevent rust and to remove dirt; also rub the outside of the barrel. Close the breech by easing springs.

b. The mainspring should never be allowed to remain compressed, except when the carbine is loaded. The position of the indicator shows when the spring is compressed and when released; in the former case it points to the rear of the block axis pin, in the latter well to the front of it.

c. No hard substance, such as emery, sand-paper, &c., is ever to be used for cleaning either the inside or outside of the carbine; care is to be taken to prevent the browning being rubbed off the barrel. No oil other than that issued is to be used (vide para. 301).

d. To prevent water soaking into the stock, and at the same time to give it a polished appearance, it should be well rubbed with oil. French polish or varnish is on no account to be used.

e. A little beeswax should also be applied between stock and barrel to prevent water from getting under the latter.

f. By this method of cleaning, the barrel is little likely to become rusty, and there will be no necessity to remove the fore-end.

g. Care must be taken in drawing and returning the cleaning rod that the slot in the rod-holder and the cam on the rod are not worn away by rough usage. The upper band should never be loosened in order to make the rod work in and out easily; if this instruction is not followed the rod will become so loose in its seat as to fall out on the carbine being fired.

h. Before using the carbine, the barrel (particularly the chamber) is to be wiped out till free from oil or other lubricant, and dust or sand.

i. Further instructions in regard to the care of arms and ammunition are contained in the Musketry Regulations, 1887, Section 1, Chapter III., especially para. 46.

4. In Appendix No. 4, after the third line, add "Musketry Butt Memorandum, Army Form B 67."

5. The word "Martini-Henry" will be substituted for the word "Snider" wherever the latter occurs in the Regulations for the Yeomanry Cavalry.
